

IBIBS and Industry Partner Integrated Learning Model

Traditionally, professional firms have taken individuals after graduation. Instead of relying on institutions to educate individuals to a standard that is not contextualised to your own work practices there is an opportunity to influence the learning outcomes earlier, at the students' cost rather than the Partner's, for the benefit for both parties from a career, quality and commercial perspective.

